RELAUNCH PROGRAMME BY SG WOMEN IN TECH AND NTUC LEARNINGHUB

1. SG Women in Tech (SGWIT) and NTUC LearningHub (NTUC LHUB) have joined forces to launch Relaunch, a programme designed to facilitate women's re-entry into the tech workforce after a career break.
2. This collaboration gathers the Singapore tech ecosystem to provide support, including technology upskilling, soft skills management, and job placement opportunities, smoothing their return to work environment.
3. The Relaunch programme has garnered significant support from the tech industry. To date, 23 companies have committed their resources, offering training, mentoring, hiring opportunities, and providing a supportive environment for women to re-enter the workforce. More details of the participating companies in Annex A.
4. SGWIT will work closely with NTUC LHUB as the anchor partner to encourage women to embark on their next career journey, navigating the steps to be re-employed. NTUC LHUB will attract and engage women to participate and gain the necessary skillsets required for the current tech industry.
5. Through targeted outreach and support, the initiative aims to inspire women to re-enter and rediscover their passion for technology and seize the opportunities available in the industry.
6. The Relaunch programme is an extension of SGWIT's ongoing efforts such as the Corporate Pledge for companies to pledge a conducive working environment, and SG100WIT list to honour female role models who have made significant contributions to the tech industry.
